A native Texan cook who has traveled extensively in France, Danika Boyle combines the kitchen confidence of Patricia Wells with Austin's indie-rock edge. As the founder of Petite Pêche & Co., a high-end travel company, Boyle arranges events all over the world: culinary tours of France and Tuscany, pop-up salons in Paris, cooking classes in Austin. "For me, parties, cooking classes, travel—they're all a way to create a sense of community between like-minded people," she says.

France and Texas will come together in yet another way at the new 60-room inn Boyle is designing on Austin's East Side, where she will host cooking classes and events. She plans to incorporate a French-style bakery and restaurant and extensive gardens inspired by the seaside town of Menton, near the French-Italian border. It's Boyle's latest way of bringing her Francophilia home. "When I was 16, I remember looking through a travel magazine about the south of France with one of my girlfriends. She was drooling over a bathing suit, but I was like, 'Look at that hotel!'"

French-Inspired Inn, Grocery, and Restaurant Planned for East 12th

Danika Boyle, who is the owner of the culinary travel company Petite Peche & Co., revealed that she's planning a new "new 60-room inn on Austin's East Side," which will also "incorporate a French-style bakery and restaurant and extensive gardens." Eater has obtained the mock-ups for this inn, whose proposed location is 1000-1022 East 12th Street. - Austin.Eater.com; Sep 2013

Thank you for reaching out. Unfortunately I will not be in town on the 3rd but I'm happy to report and you can share with the neighborhood that we secured our investors - a process which as anyone knows takes a while and for us took 16 months- and are entering the permitting phase. As you are also probably aware this process can take between 8-10 months so we are hoping to break ground by year end or beg of next. We are zoned appropriately and are not applying for any change in use or variances so it's a pretty straightforward process; as we progress I will keep the neighborhood updated. As the plan was all along, there will be a Mediterranean styled boutique hotel, extensive gardens and grounds, a larger parking component than is necessary but we feel is appropriate not only for us but also for the neighborhood and the street down the line and a restaurant / bakery / potential light retail component.

Developing a project as sensitive and original as this took more time than was assumed but we have a great team in place now to see it through.
